> Initial Draft Text:

> "To the project team members, we would like to inform you that the digital marketing platform development project is currently facing a two-week delay due to some technical challenges in integrating electronic payment gateways. We are currently working with the tech team to resolve this issue and will deliver on the new proposed date soon."

> Fact-Checking Results:

> 1. Timeframe: Verified through the project management system logs (Jira/Trello); confirmed that the actual delay is 10 business days (not two weeks).
> 2. Reason for Delay: Verified with the engineering lead report; the issue specifically stems from delayed API response times for the third payment gateway.
> 3. New Deadline: The proposed deadline approved by management is October 25th.

> Refined Text:

> "Dear Project Team,
>
> As part of our commitment to transparency and keeping you continuously updated on the progress of the digital marketing platform development project, we would like to inform you of a minor adjustment to our schedule. Due to technical challenges related to API integration with the new payment gateway, the timeline has been extended by 10 business days, shifting the official launch date to October 25th.
>
> We have complete confidence in the team's capabilities, and we have attached the technical support plan to help overcome this hurdle efficiently."
